"Ours Is the World"

Prince George is a small world of students whose lives center around the high school. It is a world in which sorrow and success can follow each other within the space of an hour—from lingering doubt following an English exam to the anticipation of Friday night's game. To us, the most serious world problems seem a little smaller and more remote when compared to term papers, science projects, and mid-term exams. Actually, our removal is caused by preoccupation with studies and dates and school activities, which leave little for thoughts of national problems. We are concerned mainly with our own personal experiences: those of our world within a world—Prince George.

Staff Honors Miss Martin

Over the years, students and administrators have come and gone, leaving their contributions, large or small, for the betterment of Prince George High School. Of these, one has proved to be exceptional. She came to us eleven years ago, looked the situation over, saw a challenge and accepted it. The resulting victory was due to her stimulating encouragement in our academic pursuits . . . her willingness to promote and aid in our varied activities . . . her infinite loyalty to the school, and never-ending interest in us and our future.

With admiration and sincerity, we, the yearbook staff, dedicate the 1965 Peerage to Miss Ruth Martin.

ORGANIZATIONS . . .

The World of Service

Our world of service through organizations revolves on an axis of spirited co-operation. It exists as an intangible phase which develops leadership and membership culminating in personal reward, fellowship, and service to school. Enriched through participation and association with the various activities, we branch out to an increasing realm of service—service to family, to community, and to country.

Leadership Emerges

Character, scholarship, leadership, and service are qualities of those students who are recognized by the National Honor Society. The purpose of this organization is to encourage scholarship, to instill a desire to render service, to promote leadership, and to emphasize the importance of character in students of our school.

A faculty council meets in the fall and spring semesters to select those students who have met the high standards stipulated for membership in this society. Students must maintain a high scholastic average and be of outstanding service to our school through their participation and leadership in various activities. During the two annual candlelight ceremonies, these students are inducted for membership in the National Honor Society in the presence of our entire student body.

Hank Pedigo Officiates

Hank Pedigo, President of the Student Council, exhibits able leadership and thorough understanding of the problems facing the students of Prince George. Guiding the S.C.A.

throughout this year, Hank has, indeed, shown himself to be capable of fulfilling the heavy responsibilities of this office.

S.C.A. Has Capable Leaders

The Student Co-operative Association is the most vital organization in our school. Although the students here at Prince George are divided in many respects, there is one activity where they find a meeting of minds—the S.C.A.—whether through direct participation or sideline support. The S.C.A. is made up of the executive committee, which consists of the S.C.A. officers, the eleven committee chairmen of the standing committees, the class presidents and the homeroom representatives.

The school spirit committee improves the moral of the students and keeps their spirit at a high level. Broadcasting from the radio room, the Radio Committee supplies the students during lunch with music, jokes, and announcements. The Devotional Committee provides inspirational guidance each morning for the students. In charge of the honor roll in front of the gymnasium is the School Improvement Committee. The assemblies, which must be both informative and interesting, are planned by the Assembly Committee. The Hospitality Committee and the Social Committee work hand in hand. Together they plan the homecoming and twirp week events. The Safety Committee promotes safety throughout the school with the help of posters and bulletins. The Scepter, which states conduct rules and regulations, presents curriculums, faculty personnel, organization of officers, and scheduled holidays, is planned during the summer months by the Handbook Committee. The Scrapbook Committee keeps business records as well as records of events. Trying to promote student participation, the Point System Committee distributes points evenly for various school activities. Together the committees unite to form a better S.C.A. with Miss Ruth Martin as sponsor.

Joanne Schaetzel graciously accepts the duties of the Secretary.

As Treasurer, Hutch Megee keeps an accurate account of the S.C.A. records.

Varsity Lettermen Participate in Monogram Club Activities

Club Prints Athletic Programs

A club of numerous and various activities is the Prince George Monogram Club. Membership in this organization is obtained through the earning of a varsity athletic letter. Inclusive of those students who participate in girls' and boys' sports, the club also gives membership to the varsity cheerleaders.

Unlike most intramural organizations, the Monogram Club has a full twelve-month year which begins in the spring with the election of officers to serve for the coming year. Club affairs in '64-'65 are presided over by the club president, Bill Wall. Bill is assisted in his duties by vice-president, Don Nelson. Edwina Moore handles all correspondence and Monogram Club paper work as secretary; club funds are under the management of Stuart Rosenberg, treasurer.

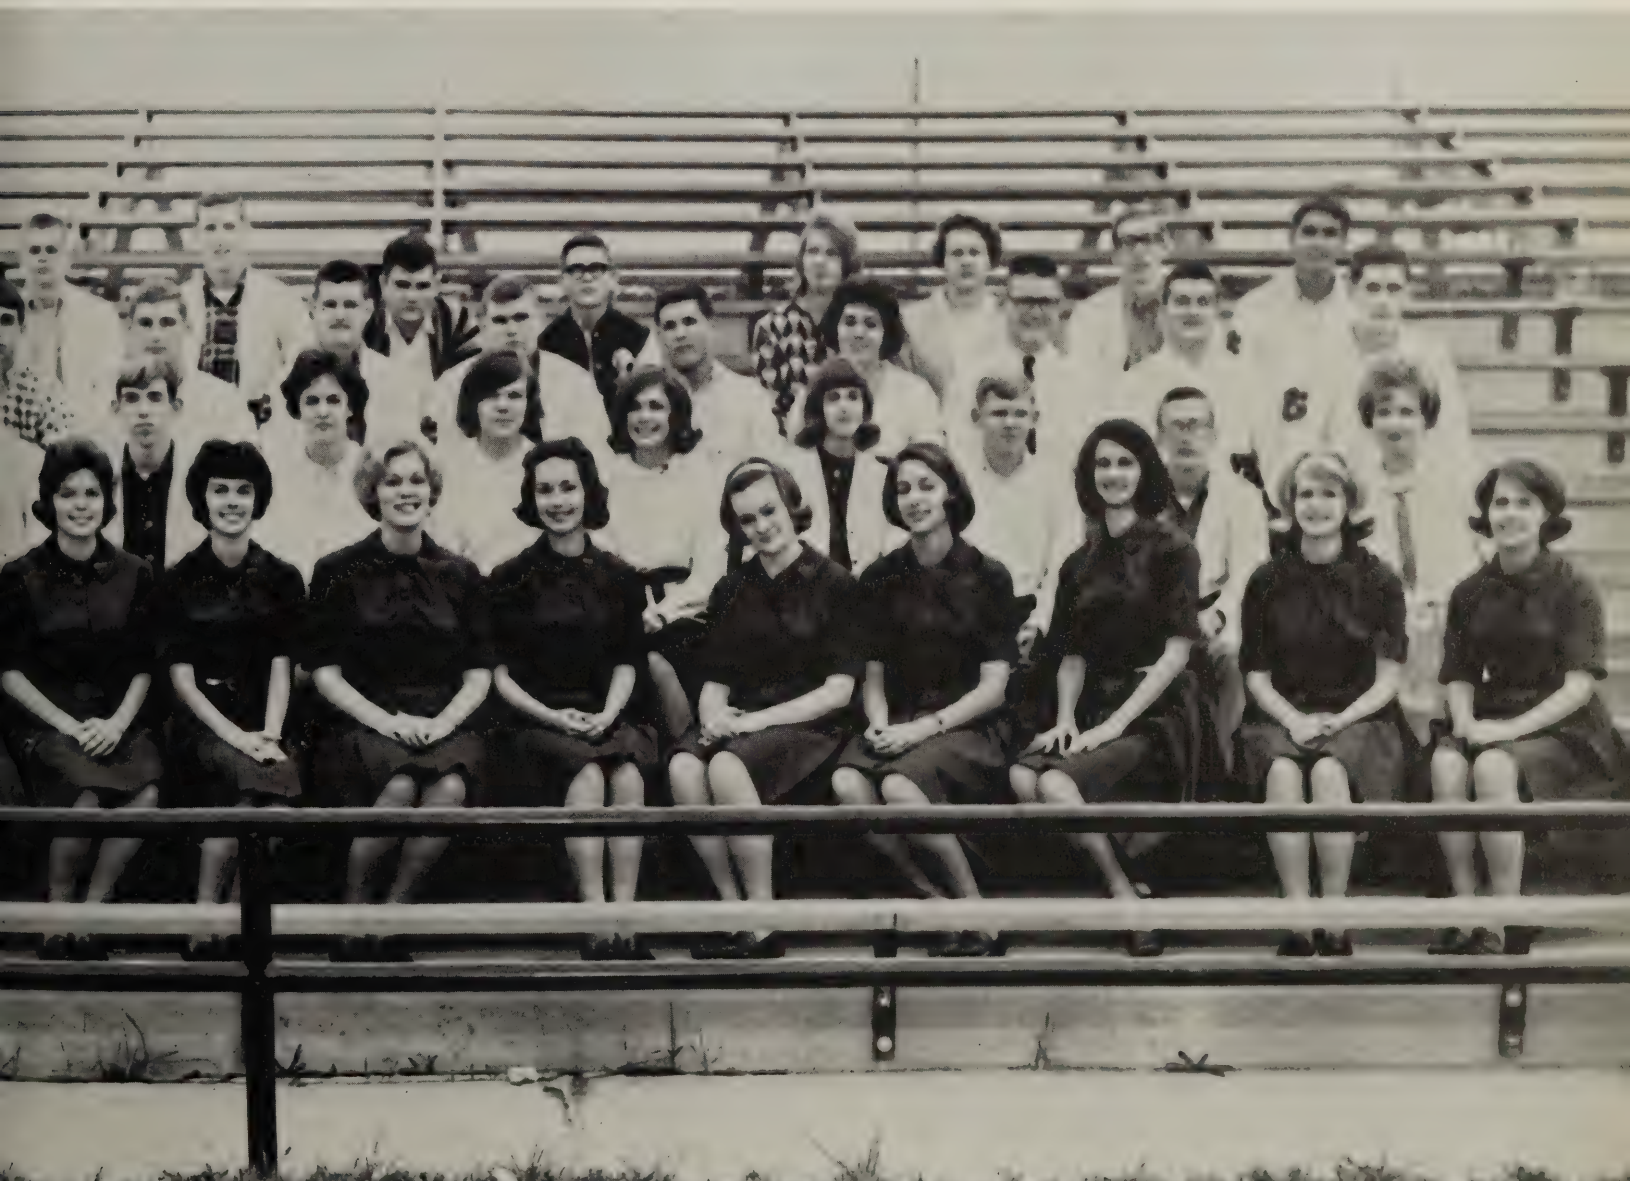

Where club activities are concerned, first on the annual agenda, as well as the most important and most time-consuming project, commences during summer vacation. This project is the soliciting of advertisement space in our football program to local merchants and businessmen. The club also handles the program printing, in addition to selling the finished copies in the fall. A specified amount of the profits obtained through this project goes toward the single social function of the club year, the annual Monogram Club banquet. Held in the spring, the banquet is planned by a special committee appointed by the president. A second source of expense for the treasury is the purchase of monogram jackets and blazers for club members.

Throughout the year, the members of the club, as well as its sponsor, Mr. Harold Smith, strive for the goal of instilling an active expression of school spirit in the heart of the student body. On activities of this nature, members of the Monogram Club work hand-in-hand with members of the SCA School Spirit Committee. Above all else, however, it is the prime purpose of the Monogram Club to promote all athletic activities.

F.B.L.A. Incites Students

The Future Business Leaders of America is a national organization which strives to develop character, citizenship, and patriotism in business students. Members from our chapter engage in many activities in order to encourage and practice thrift and establish standards for entrance into the business world. Any student enrolled in one or more commercial courses is entitled to membership in our club.

Officers: Marian Temple, Secretary; Rita Merhout, President; Brenda May, Historian; Miss Clibourne, Sponsor; Pat Voda, Treasurer; Barbara Auen, Vice-President; Loretta Barron, Parliamentarian.

Library Club Stresses Value of Reading

Our Library Club was first organized in 1953. Membership consists of select library assistants who possess the merit of dependability, seriousness of purpose, love for books, and scholastic standing. Striving to help the students and teachers in every way, we spend our study halls shelving and mending books, tending the desk, and filing magazines.

Officers: President, Sharon Hancock; Vice-President, Dorsa Cassell; Sponsor, Mrs. Hopper; Secretary, Harry Clark; Treasurer, Joanne Schaezel.

Math & Science Club Sponsors Science Fair

Club founders: Susan Moncol, Bunny Russell, and Jean Sorrels.

We seek through our club to further interest in the fields of math and science. We have been guided toward this goal by our sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Newman. Mr. Thomas offered us his able leadership in the preparation and conduction of our main project, the Science Fair.

This year we started many new activities. Among these was the tutoring committee which consisted of all members who desire to use their talents to help others understand math and science more completely. Our members strive to maintain the high scholastic standards of our club and to keep the light of knowledge burning brightly.

Sordelett, Treasurer.

President, Katie Farnell; Historian, Beth Cibula.

Domestic Skills Stressed in F.H.A.

We, in the Future Homemakers of America, have organized into an efficient, knowledgeable society dedicated to the important task of establishing good homemakers for future American homes. Under the able guidance and sponsorship of Mrs. Lillie Rice, we are realizing the importance of the woman's ever-increasing role in the home. In conjunction with the regular homemaking classes, we are gaining knowledge through projects, lectures, and educational reading in the skills of home management, sewing, cooking, baby care, and the delicate art of "husband care".

This year representatives of the chapter have attended the State Convention in Fort Monroe, Virginia; the Spring Rally for our chapter and those directly surrounding was held here at Prince George. Delegate Pat Cassidy and Mrs. Rice attended the National Convention in Chicago last July.

Sitting: Linda Roser, Brenda Renfroe, Jackie Delle. Standing: Gloria Mayer, Sherry Wagner, Brenda Baily.

F.T.A. Sponsors Scholarship

Officers: President, Marian Temple; Vice-President, Marcia Saval; Sponsor, Mrs. Newman; Secretary, Mary Kreps; Treasurer, Susan Seay.

Realizing that the greatness of our country depends on our educational system, we seek to interest students in the teaching profession. This goal is achieved through our many activities; the most important of these is student teaching.

A new project we have undertaken this year is the sponsoring of a scholarship in co-operation with the Prince George Education Association. This scholarship will be awarded to a deserving senior who plans to enter the teaching profession.

Officers: Stuart Rosenberg, President; Rolf McDaniel, Vice-President; Madame Rusmisell, Sponsor; Dan Cleary, Treasurer; Carol Church, Secretary.

Under the able sponsorship of Madame Rusmisell, our French Club undertakes to acquaint interested students with the customs, interests, and sports of the average French person. We meet once a month to discuss subjects as varied as French cuisine, French colonies, and French wars. Our refreshment committee enables us to sample many French delicacies, and our programs are prepared in advance by a program committee.

Spanish Club Promotes Interest in Spanish Customs

A fascinating experience for a language student is to learn of the people and customs of foreign countries. The aim of our Spanish Club is to encourage this interest in Spanish-speaking countries. With Mrs. Vinson as our sponsor, we strive to promote an understanding of a way of life very different from our own.

We had a Christmas party with the other language clubs in December. We also sponsored a sock-hop and a banquet during the year to raise money for our club.

Officers, seated: Bill Wall, treasurer; Mrs. Vinson, sponsor; Eddie Oates, president; standing: Edwina Moore, vice-president; Katie Farnell; secretary; Yvonne Farnell, newspaper editor; Joyce Temple, reporter.

Officers: President, Dawn Nelson; Vice President, Mary Kreps; Sponsor, Mr. Pittman; Treasurer, Peggy Sordelett; Secretary, Marcia Johnson.

The Latin Club has come under new supervision this year as Mr. Robert Pittman became its sponsor. During its meetings, the Latin Club explores various aspects of Roman culture—the history, language, and religion of the ancient Romans—while attempting to lend some modern meaning to this ancient language.

Staff Prints Paper

Our Journalism class writes and prints the bi-weekly school newspaper, the Lion Lore. We are gaining valuable experience in the field of journalism, as we supply the school with an informative newspaper.

Among the new introductions to the paper's organization is the "University Scan", a column of descriptions of the local colleges; "Chippin' Away", consisting of Chip Anderson's hilarious critical comment; "The Namedropper", our social column; and "Athletes' Footnotes", Henry Freeman's sports column.

Band Program Stimulates Musical Abilities

The Royal Band, in its twelfth year under the leadership of Mr. John V. Mazza, continued the tradition it has acquired of bringing recognition and admiration to Prince George High School. Through the intense effort and hard work put forth by the members, our band made its third appearance in New York City's Thanksgiving Day Parade, climaxing a year of performances at numerous athletic events, parades, and the annual spring concert.

The World of Competition

Participating in their third year of Central District rivalry, the Prince George Royals have entered the world of competition with unequaled drive and desire. Kept at an apex throughout victory and defeat and supported by the student body, our teams' fighting spirit has never wavered.

Throughout the years, the Royals have endeavored to improve interscholastic relations and outstanding sportsmanship. It is for this reason that our athletic program has proved itself exceptional in the world of competition.

Football Posts 4-6 Record

A co-captain's job is to lead the team, and the Royals found two good leaders during the past season in Eddie Stewart and Bill Wall. When the Royals were on defense, Wall performed the usual duties of a quarterback, calling the signals that swung Prince George's offensive machine into full gear as he led his team in scoring with 44 points, enough to gain him second place in the Tri-City scoring race. In addition to his own scoring, Bill passed for three of the Royals' other touchdowns, accounting for all but two of P.G.'s offensive scores. These statistics easily explain why his teammates selected him for the second straight year as the team's Most Valuable Offensive Back.

When the Royals switched to defense, the leader and signal caller was Stewart. Operating from his middle line-backer position, he decided which defense the Royals would use against any situation that might arise. His hard and often-made tackles earned him praise from rival coaches throughout the season. Although it was his defensive achievements that gained him the Most Valuable Defensive Lineman Trophy, Stewart also was a leader on the offensive as he continued to pull out from his center position to add extra blocking in addition to his regular assignments. Bill and Eddie both climaxed their Senior years by being named to the All-District and All-Tri-City teams.

Team Gains First District Win

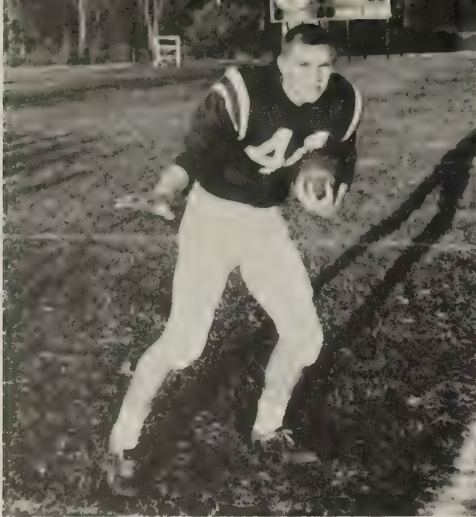

The 1964 football season proved to be one of heart-breaks and sorrows for the Prince George fans. The Royals, composed mainly of Seniors, fought and scrapped their way to a 4-6 record, losing four games by a single touchdown.

The Royals opened their season with a frustrating 7-0 loss to Colonial Heights. Prince George greatly outplayed the Colonials statistic wise, but lost the game on an intercepted pass. Then on the following week the Royals shutout defending Central District Champion Douglas Freeman 13-0 to record their first district win since entering the league. Another close loss to Hopewell and a defeat at the hands of powerful Thomas Dale were encountered before the Royals traveled to Richmond on October 9 and downed Huguenot 13-6.

A week's lay-off resulted in a 25-0 drumming by Capital District power Henrico, but then the Royals started to click. The offense jelled, and the defense managed to come up with the big plays. When the Royals traveled to Cameron Field to meet Petersburg, they were 36 point underdogs. The Wave had to take advantage of two P.G. fumbles, one on the Wave's one yard line, to edge out a 7-0 victory. During the next two weeks, as they jelled into one of the area's stronger teams, the Royals beat Benedictine 27-19 and Meadowbrook 20-0. Injuries to Art Pilgrim and Joe Pientka in the final game of the season saw the Royal's chances for a breakeven season go down the drain as they lost to Manchester 13-6.

Basketball Finishes at 2-14

When Harold Smith took over the coaching reins of the Prince George basketball team, he was faced with the monumental task of fielding a team from a squad that had its top seven ball players graduate. Smith, realizing that a long range plan was the only practical one, decided to place the accent on youth in an attempt to return the Royals to a position of glory. In view of this decision, most observers felt that the Royals would fail to win a ball game. Instead, they came up with victories over Thomas Dale and arch-rival Hopewell. Three members of the squad were selected to the All-Tri-City team: Eddy Oates, Richard Bogese, and Pat Dunford. Oates, who had a 15.9 scoring average, was the lone junior on the first or second team, and Dunford was the only sophomore to receive any mention at all. The prospects of a highly successful season next year are the brightest they have been at Prince George for years. Returning from the team that played in the last game of the season are five juniors, four sophomores, and one freshman.

Prince George has always been proud of the fact that it is among the few schools in the state that boasts a wrestling team. It has always been felt that wrestling is a great builder of individual character. This year Coach Bobby Swineford was forced to work with a group of inexperienced boys. Despite the lack of personal competition, some great individual performances were displayed throughout the season. With some additional aid in the heavyweight division, it appears that the Royals will field a winning squad as most of the lightweights are returning.

Randy Cutter gains two points for a reversal.

The wrestling team goes through warm-up drills prior to a match.

Record Holders Pace Team

Determined to defend the high status it has gained during our short membership in the Central District, an experienced squad was on hand as the Prince George Royals began the current track season. The holders of eight out of the school's thirteen records were on hand to pace this year's squad when coaches Walter Wells and Jack Daniel called the team out for practice in early March. Three-fourths of this select group came in the personage of two people: Don Nelson and Dave Tolley. Each of these boys holds three records. Don holds records in the mile-relay, the 440 yard dash, and the discus; the latter two earned him high standing in the district meet. Dave proved himself to be the class of the lot in the broad jump (an event in which he is the defending district champion), the 100 yard dash, and the 220 yard dash.

The Royals figured to be strong in the distance events in which seniors provided them with yet another pair of records. Richard Bogese elapsed all previous times in the 880 yard run, always a strong event for the Royals; and Ralph Bendjebar has proved himself to be the best miler in the school's eleven year history.

Coaches Walter Wells and Jack Daniel discuss the Royals' prospects for another successful season.

First row: Bob Stirling, Frankie Vlk, Gene DeCarlo, Eddie Stewart, Hank Pedigo, Eddy Oates. Second row: Lewis Boggs (manager), Terry Trickler, Bill Wall, Richard Saunders, Jimmy Hanzlik, Will Adams, Coach Saunders.

Baseball Experience Indicates Success

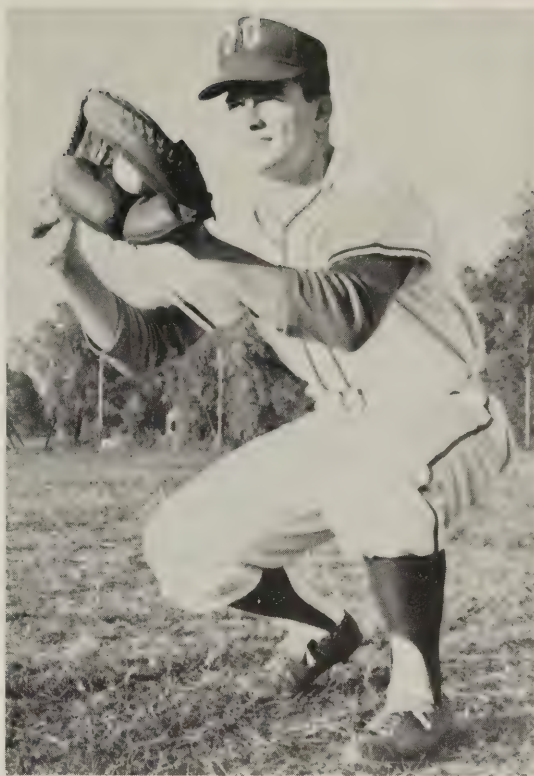

The baseball team embarked on its third season in the Central District, after having compiled a 20-6 record through its first two campaigns, with two objectives in mind: one, to improve upon that record; and the other, to annex the league crown, if at all possible. The prospects for both seemed bright as Coach Charlie Saunders greeted a large turnout of J.V. graduates and newcomers, in addition to a solid core of seven lettermen from last year's varsity aggregation. The team competed throughout the season with one main objective: to maintain the prestige the Royals have developed as a perennial diamond power. Tri-captains Hank Pedigo, Jimmy Hanzlik, and Eddy Oates climaxed the season by receiving All-District honors as they led the Royals in their assault on the fifteen-game schedule.

Matched against cunning opposition, the girl's basketball team again achieved a successful season. Armed with the unbeatable combination of hustle and desire, the Royalettes formed an impediment to all rivals. In the early part of the season, the Royalettes were mainly a defensive team. Later, the team began to rely more upon an offense led by Bonnie Flagg, who scored 101 points. Guided by Mrs. Grace Grandt, and led by co-captains, Sharon Peter, and Jean Harris, the Royalettes ended their season with a 4-4 record, excluding two additional scrimmage victories.

The World of Achievement

Our world of achievement is characterized by the acquisition of various ambitions. Through the combined efforts of many devoted school citizens, our dreams have been realized and our goals have materialized. These ambitions consist not only of the concrete triumphs of successful dances and contests but also of the intangible goals which we include in our moral intentions: the ability to work well with others, the willingness to accept correction eagerly, and the quality of self-reliance.

Representing the Class of '65 at the 18th annual Boys' and Girls' State Convention were Jimmy Carpenter, Edwina Moore, Don Nelson, Hank Pedigo, Susan Seay, and Bill Wall. This year the convention for Girls' State was held at Radford College from June 21 to June 27, and the College of William and Mary hosted the Boys' State Convention from July 12 to July 18. Selected by the faculty and elected by the junior class, the Prince George delegates were chosen on their merits of citizenship, leadership, service to the school, and character.

With the support and encouragement of Hank Pedigo, Don Nelson's fellow delegates expressed their confidence in his character and leadership by electing him Governor of Boys' State, one of the greatest honors that can be achieved by a high school senior. In recognition of her service and outstanding achievements, Susan Seay was asked to return as a junior counselor for the forthcoming year. Edwina Moore emerged victoriously over two opposing candidates in a senatorial campaign. Elected to the Virginia House of Delegates were Bill Wall and Jimmy Carpenter.

Our school is very proud to have such qualified students among our student body. We displayed this admiration at an assembly in which the representatives gave a vivid account of their experience at Boys' and Girls' State. At this time, Susan Seay and Don Nelson received a standing ovation for their excellent representation of our school.

Ring Dance Enjoyed by Seniors

Green and white streamers, golden candlelight, and a rocking band created the setting in the high school gym on the night of September 26, 1964. The clock struck ten, marking the arrival of the new treasures. The bright shiny rings were presented by Mr. Jewell in recognition of the end of a five year accomplishment soon to be within reach.

No time was wasted exchanging polite, complimentary remarks. Each senior was thoroughly convinced that his was, indeed, unique and quite the most handsome stone. The boys greedily handed their cherished possessions over to the girls, thinking that "going-steady" wasn't too advantageous after all. (The things one must give up!)

After a week's disturbance, the novelty ceased; and the seniors furthered their thoughts toward the realization of an even bigger task—that of securing adequate preparation for the cap and gown.

S.C.A. President, Hank Pedigo, and date, Judy Pennington, delightedly display their newly received class rings.

DANCE

Alumni and students engage in the fun and excitement of the 1964 Homecoming Dance.

Homecoming Dance Is Planned Success

Hutch Megee and date, Don Lauter, and Carol Dundon and date, Joe Herlica, enjoy the music of the Caravans.

October 17, 1964, alumni and students exchanged warm greetings on the gym floor. The Homecoming game with Manchester had been rained out, but we soon managed to forget this unfortunate occurrence and busied ourselves with conversation, dancing, and companionship. The anxiety surmounted when the sixteen homecoming candidates who had previously been nominated by the football team were summoned to the stage for the announcement of the finalists. Hank Pedigo, our S.C.A. President, presented red roses to each of the winning contestants: Hutch Megee, freshman; Bobbi Jo Harris, sophomore; and Carol Dundon, junior. The climax of the evening was the announcing of the girl selected by the student body as the one whom they felt to be representative of their school, the Eleventh Annual Homecoming Queen. The atmosphere was tense, and the four girls running for the queen candidacy, Carolyn Albert, Diane Motter, Edwina Moore, and Judy Pennington, held their breath in hopeful anticipation. The final moment arrived when Cathy Lange, the Queen of '63, yielded her crown to Edwina Moore, the girl who now served her student body as a symbol of the Royal spirit.

The Juniors and Seniors displayed their ability as football players in the competitive "Powder Puff Game" on October 7, 1964. The Juniors proved victorious as they beat the Seniors, 14-0. Since it was the first loss for the Seniors in the history of Prince George, it was very disheartening; however, it resulted in their more diligent effort to uphold their prestige.

Student Body Elects Miss Peerage

Susan Seay, elected by popular vote of the student body, embraces those qualities of character which we consider representative of our school: loyalty, integrity, scholarship, friendliness, and leadership. We, the student body, salute Susan and wish to express our admiration to one whom we consider worthy of the revered title of Miss Peerage.

To Carole Angier goes the honored recognition of first runner-up. Linda King and Sheila Kitchen tied for third place winners. Prince George is, indeed, proud of these four girls, all of whom embody the true Royal ideals.

Miss Peerage contestants: Donna Burton, Cathy Ryan, Sheila Kitchen, Marian Temple, Carolyn Albert, Judy Pennington, Julie Rahn, Linda

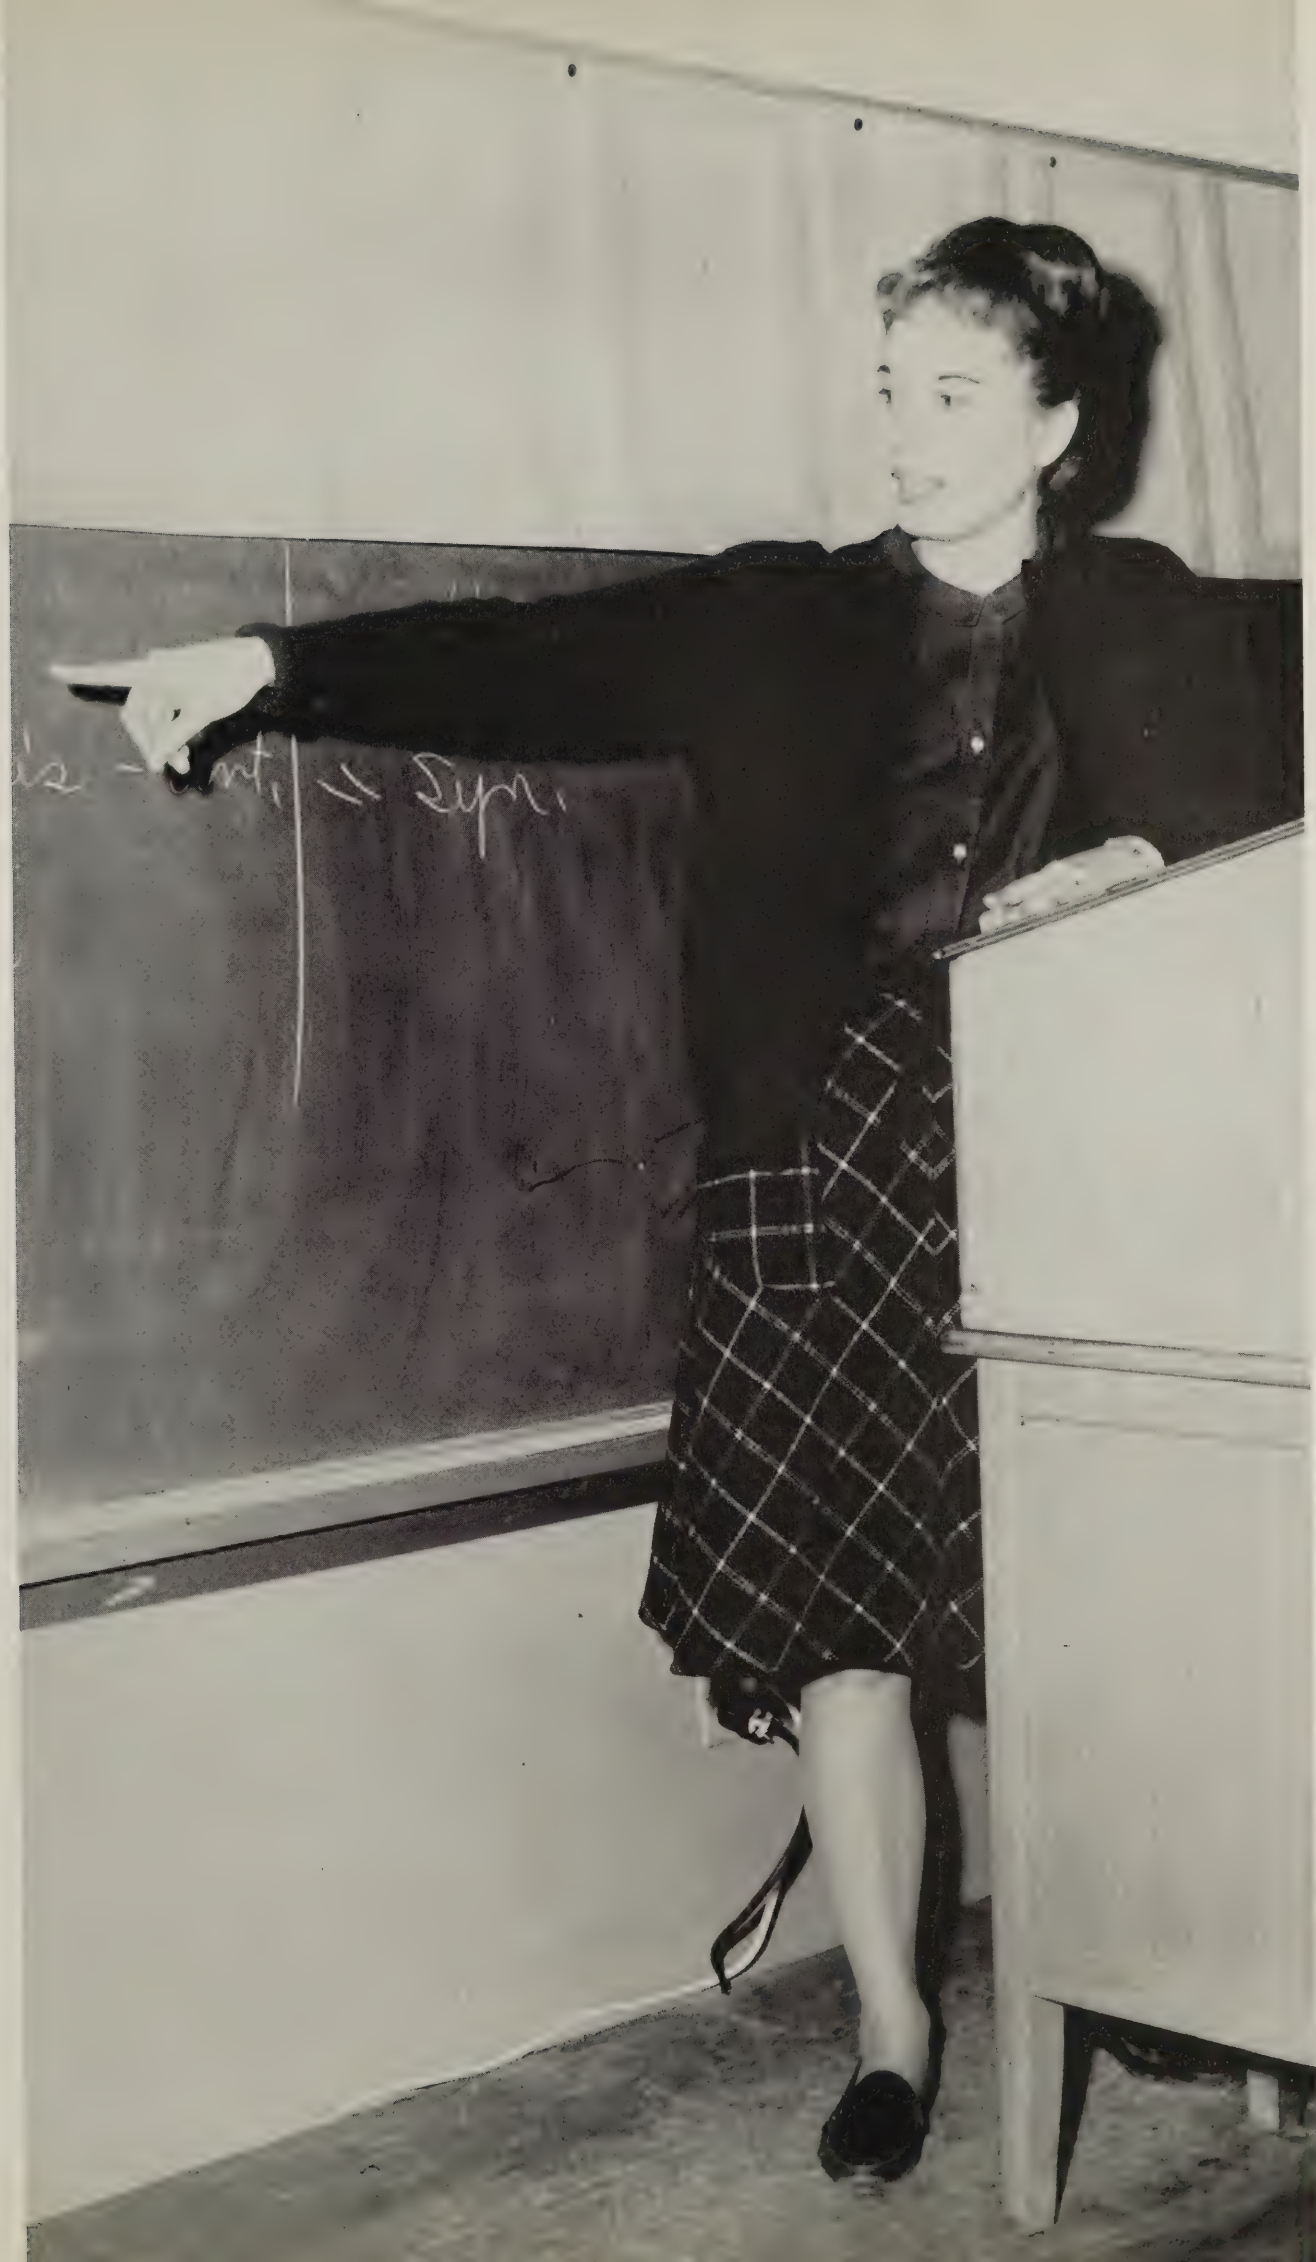

King, Marsha Christian, Susie Gleason, Marcia Saval, Bettie Anderson, Dianne Motter, and Carole Angier.

The World of Teaching

Ours is the world of a complete academic and vocational curriculum available to all, with choices including music, home economics, sciences, foreign languages, art, and business. The Administration has guided us throughout this year making it possible for us to gain knowledge in our chosen fields. Our most distinctive innovation of the year, team teaching, has provided juniors and seniors with specialized and intensified instruction in English and the social sciences. With this new concept in teaching, the faculty has made long strides in broadening their world of teaching and our world of learning.

MR. RICHARD M. JEWELL
B.S. Degree, M.E. Degree
V.P.I.
Principal

Completing his sixth year as Principal of Prince George High School, Richard M. Jewell is recognized as a man whose enthusiasm for his work combined with his genuine interest in students and colleagues sets him apart from the average.

Seeking diligently to expand and improve the caliber of our school as an opportunity for educational advancement, Mr. Jewell exhibits the perseverance so vital to continuing our present record of success. Realizing the importance of decisiveness, he capably and professionally manages the affairs of Prince George High School, while he enjoys the respect and admiration of the student body.

Mr. Jewell, Mr. Pamplin, and Mr. DeLoatch take time to discuss the affairs of a day at Prince George.

Mr. DeLoatch has been a familiar figure at Prince George for several years. He has been Guidance Director for five years. This year, he has advanced to the position of Assistant Principal. In addition to his new duties, he continues to maintain his work with permanent records, class standings, and counseling of students.

The World of Learning

Our world of learning is a challenging and rewarding world in which students become pioneers in an infinite realm of knowledge. With an unending capacity to change, it is a world of unlimited achievement. Success in this world can only be gained through diligent preparation combined with a thorough course of study. Education is vital; knowledge is of greatest importance. Our world of learning is a stepping stone from which we will take our first uncertain steps to an even greater world of discovery.

Juniors at last, we look back fondly on those days when we were but mere freshmen, unbothered with the trials and decisions of our future lives. of acknowledging leadership, so that we may be the sound foundation for our followers, and that they, too, may lean toward the future with a gleam of hope that they will be able to attribute to the good of the world.

SUSAN SEAY
Treasurer

Years of preparation have brought us up through the grades to our culminating point—our senior year. Behind us we leave endless anxieties and frustrations, taking with us a multitude of exhilarating memories.

From a variety of diverse backgrounds, we find ourselves entering a progressive world of even greater diversity. We yearn to grow, to reach out, to touch life. After graduation, we will achieve this, as, heads held high, we, the leaders of tomorrow, leave our alma mater to take our places in the world for which we have been prepared.

"Danielle" Cleary, "Tomalyn" Wilson, "Bernadette" Houchins, and "Josephine" Herlica sure make a tough-looking bunch of senior cheerleaders!

As another year at Prince George High School draws to a close, we complete another chapter in the history of our lives; this time, however, we find ourselves leaning more toward the future, trying to remember only those things we believe to be essential to our evolution into well-rounded individuals. Through our close association with the varied worlds at Prince George, we can now more clearly appreciate the vastness of our opportunities in the world outside of school. With our newly gained knowledge, we find ourselves eager to advance into the competition of adult life to prove ourselves worthy of our great heritage and to begin applying our experiences for the betterment of mankind. Gradually, we have come to realize that we can achieve our utmost goals through continuous and devoted work; with this revelation, we are convinced that Ours Is the World.
